

Corona News 08/01/2021 The Corona Week en passe

Vaccination refusal - This word currently seems to be the code word in all media, among politicians, virologists and all those who absolutely want everyone to get vaccinated. Some now do it with the lock number and give out a bratwurst in Thuringia, others want to give 75 euros, Prime Minister Hans is thinking of concert and restaurant vouchers or a weekend in a hotel (please click on the graphic on the left), and people like Kretschmann are threatening them to those who refused to vaccinate not to be allowed to go to the cinema, events or other areas in autumn when the numbers rise, and if at all, only with a test, which you should then pay for yourself. All these guys, I can't name them any other way, forget only one thing: Who brings the virus in as a returnee here to Germany? Who does the Remmidemmi at demos and parties and, with the tolerance of the police, does not keep distances and mask requirements, keyword maverick demos and Christopher Street Day, football events and what else could I call? And in student circles, the will to vaccinate should not be particularly pronounced. Why not? Because maybe there is no special student loan as a reward? And I can't say it often enough, even Kretschmann and Co. should finally listen and understand if they are able to: The vaccination neither makes you immune to the disease, nor does it protect you from new infections, including the claim Vaccinated people would only get weak effects, has been refuted. Yes, the serious infections are less common, but not excluded. And the vaccinations don't help permanently either, what do I say, permanently? Lower Saxony wants to start a third vaccination, which they call refreshment, in autumn. I wonder why? Because something is lazy here, the first vaccinations for which these guys turn us unvaccinated on have not even lasted a year. So everyone has a 3-fold chance of side effects, wonderful, super healthy. Look forward to it. While other federal states are said to be so surprised and consider this to be too early, Biontech is already trying to get approval for a third vaccination. It should do so well, the antibodies would then increase 11-fold. As a non-medical practitioner and layperson, I recommend 6 vaccinations, after the 6th vaccination the antibodies could increase 1000 times. And a lot helps a lot, doesn't it? And because those who refuse to vaccinate are still left with vaccine, there is talk of tens of thousands of doses, these are either given away to third countries by the federal government or used in job centers. Because they are still durable. But not all. Over 10,000 cans have to be destroyed. So in Bavaria, Schleswig Holstein and Saarland.

Because everything is so positive, on tomorrow, August 2nd, Bremen will begin with further relaxations of a special kind: Contact restrictions will be lifted, finally any number of people can meet again anywhere else. And so that this also makes sense, the distance rules are lifted at the same time. Finally being able to get in touch again, that will be possible in Bremen from Monday.

Quite different in Göttingen. The incidence value is rising again, but the restrictions still remain as they are, but there is now a large vaccination campaign. In the next 2 weeks, a certain number of vaccines will be vaccinated at various locations in Göttingen without prior notification, the motto is simply come by. However, when the number is around 200, the number of people is limited.

And why is there actually too little willingness to vaccinate among asylum seekers, migrants and immigrants? Integration officer Bund Widmann Mauz now knows, after 18 months of pandemic: Some of them don't understand us at all. No. Who would have thought that. I always thought that the first thing to do was get the language courses. She wants information buses, loudspeaker trucks, corona guides and mobile vaccination stations. Because 25% of the population with a migration history now live here. That's right, she's right, some have been living for more than 10 years and still can't speak German. Where and with whom are there deficits, Mrs. Widmann Mauz? And so that the know-it-alls in all circles come down to earth again, here are the statistics of the EMA in terms of side effects. Because of a few individual cases. Everything lied. But of course very few citizens are aware of it, it is not used on German TV, in talk shows or in political speeches. So the whole false positive vaccination mood is lost.

As of 7/24/2021 Reported cases by health professionals and non-medical professionals. Of course, this does not take into account all the cases that were not reported because people simply stayed at home and recovered. I now know 3 employees in my company, all under 40 years of age, who sometimes had severe side effects for up to 4 days, including chills, high fever, pain in their limbs and blockade of the arm lifting, because of rare. An overview of the cases (source EMA) on the right in the graphic.

The low values at Moderna and Johnson & Johnson are due to the lower level of contamination. If you want to get an overview of the side effects of products and substances yourself, simply search for the "European database of reported suspected drug side effects". There you can select both products and substances from products or vaccines. Really worth seeing. There you can also read very well how little in comparison z. B. the side effects of the flu vaccines, which have also been vaccinated millions of times. Because of the usual side effect rates as with other vaccines. All fools, and the uninformed citizens believe it. One has to counter these proclamations of false truths with facts like these.

And then I'd like to clean up a second wave of disinformation. Lauterbach, Streeck and others always like to talk about hand-picked studies, especially in talk shows that are supposed to prove one thing or the other and are then always presented to the citizens as the ultimate wisdom. And why does it work? Because many citizens do not inform themselves, as with the side effects. Although nowadays all means with the Internet are open to get serious information. Some people find Facebook, Twitter and Instagram or Telegram and whatever else there is to be serious. Because there is so much credible news, videos, newspaper clippings, talk and what I don't know exist there. Some are really true, but how is the citizen supposed to distinguish false information from real facts? Those who are not informed cannot do that. You can see that in some of the comments on posts. OK. Just forget about the studies that the group mentioned repeatedly brings into play as evidence for something. There are not only about 10 studies that I have heard at most, but as of 07/30/2021 there are a whopping 1803 studies about the corona infection. Don't you think so? But that's the way it is, and all of them can even be called up and retrieved via a certain website, with precise information about the test persons, where and who did it when, etc. Sure, some are small and not meaningful, but some cannot be heard at all the citizen for various reasons. Speaking of which we were just talking about studies. There is another new one; which now says that you can also be infected outdoors. Because the India variant has up to 5 times as high contagion values as the standard variant, contagion can happen after 1 minute of standing closer together, or only after 1 hour - or not at all. The reason given was the July music festival in Utrecht, where around 1,000 of the 20,000 participants were infected. The RKI holds against it: If the distance is maintained, the likelihood of infection is very low. Yes, who is right now?

In the meantime, organizers of major events are also speaking up, which fits just so well when the mood against vaccinators is the order of the day. Due to the fact that the strict Corona rules cannot be financed, they only want those who have been vaccinated and recovered to take part in these events. Tests should not then apply either. You want to be able to do the same in restaurants. Show proof of vaccination or get out, should be the motto. From the end of September, when only a small part will be unvaccinated, said the executive president of the Federal Association of Concert and Event Management Michow. He then sees full ranks again because the distance rules do not have to be adhered to. The limited number of visitors is no longer economical and inevitably leads to many entertainment companies sooner or later.

In any case, one thing will happen: From today, Sunday, travelers returning will be required to undergo a test when crossing the border, but no sooner have a decision been made than there are complaints again. This time from the border guards. Not enough staff, not feasible, they say. And vaccinated people are waved through. Why actually? Justification at the beginning of the report. And again the same question: What is recognized as a sufficient vaccination, i.e. how far ago must the last vaccination be, which vaccines are recognized, etc., etc. As always, unclear and vague.

While the Olympics are going on as usual, the corona cases are secretly rising dramatically in the background in Tokyo. While the number of infections was just over 3,000 on July 26th, it is now over 4,000, and it continues to rise. In the meantime, the Corona emergency has been imposed, which will initially apply until August 22nd. Strict quarantine rules apply, e.g. For example, travelers from Germany have to be quarantined for 14 days after a negative test carried out on site. Because of the corona values, Guinea had not sent any athletes to Tokyo from the start, as did North Korea. Around 241 people involved in the Olympics are now infected, and accreditation has been withdrawn because the person went on a tourist excursion without authorization.

During these times, Mr Linnemann, Chairman of the CDU / CSU's SME and Economic Union, speaks up and has clear messages to announce. Let me put it in my own words: The state has spent way too much money on social policy, that must now be curbed. He cannot identify social cuts and rampant poverty based on the extremely increased social spending, which has risen faster than economic power. The money reaches the wrong people many times over. Enough of his contribution. I'm about to feel nauseous. I'll explain his words: I can't see pervasive poverty in HIM and the economy either, he's right. After all, in times of pandemics he fought vehemently to ensure that businesses and restaurants were given ample and lavish support, and that in excess. In addition, loss offsetting with profits from previous years and more. That was his work, he shouldn't act so innocently. He played a key role in ensuring that, as he says, the wrong people got the rain of money. And why have social spending increased so massively? I didn't even know that he has only limited insight into politics. Keyword refugees. Carted 5 million here, they cost money. Social benefits for fictitious children abroad, health insurance abroad. Hartz IV recipients, short-time and part-time work, mini-jobs and top-ups, all politics that he supported.

But now I come to today's conclusion and conclusion, and it is particularly interesting. Because the stupid incidence is rising again, one now wants to invent a new arithmetic value that permanently depresses the drama of the development. It has been done several times in the past. We remember the important R value, which rose too high, now it's the turn of the incidence value. And Lower Saxony wants to do it even better. The phased plan is to be changed. Means an incidence of 50 is then only an incidence of 25 or so. So always adjust it so that it fits. And a professor in Tübingen says that even with an incidence of 1000, a lockdown is no longer necessary if enough vaccinations have been made. Then I think of a study, yes, a study that researchers did. But I suspected this study result beforehand. I want to emphasize. They found out that some corona patients who have recovered have long-term consequences. One of them is called brain fog and has cognitive limitations, to put it clearly: the intelligence quotient should decrease. I can only confirm. I have noticed for a long time not only in some people on talk shows, but also in public life.
