

Corona News 07/04/2021 New vaccination studies cloud the will to vaccinate

Surely some regular readers have already noticed that my corona reports are becoming rarer. There are two reasons for this: The numbers are supposedly so low that hardly anything worth mentioning happens. There is more and more contradicting information on this, but still there is some interesting information, it starts.

We know Spahn's saying, which is now months old: There will be no compulsory vaccination. But what happens now? Vaccine is left over because citizens make appointments but simply do not keep them and also do not cancel them; for vacation reasons, vaccinations at the family doctor or whatever. The DRK President of the Berlin Red Cross, Czaja, wants to prove this with a fine, around 25-30 euros should be due. And Lauterbach adds: That would not work at all, the vaccine must be disposed of. Why is that, are they so close to the date? Because Spahn now also notices that the willingness to vaccinate is in the basement and vaccines are and are free everywhere, a mixed vaccination is now recommended, i.e. an mRNA vaccine from Biontech or Moderna, then AstraZeneca.

This would have a positive (ie negative) effect on the effect, especially compared to the new India variant, which is advancing, because the vaccination protection would then be better. And doubles the chances of side effects. But if nobody says, you have to think along. And so that many people participate, Spahn is already bringing a positive statement into play for all vaccinated and recovered people as a precaution for the autumn. It could be that the numbers rise again in the fall, and then the lockdowns would only be for the unvaccinated. You can also recognize the two-class citizens better there. It used to be done with special license plates, which was even more visible. And to say it promptly, the number of infections is rising again, albeit only slightly. But don't worry, according to Spahn, everyone can still get their fat off. And if not automatically, then they help a little, so with many visitors at the football championship, or crowded at public viewing in the pub without any distance without a mask, err, wrong, there was at least a distance of 20 cm to the next person.

Dense crowd on the streets too. Speaking of the crowd, tomorrow is Sunday shopping in Göttingen and it will be really crowded; but eat outside, no problem. And when it comes to football, 400 infected Scots quickly grew to almost 2000 in Scotland, well, a few more or less. And Finnish fans bring the virus with them from St. Petersburg. Good as well. Let's wait for the final in London, because England is about to move in. 65,000 spectators from all over the world, everyone gets something. The incidence is only back at 230 in London. And while we are still with the vaccination: Of all things, 1 minister in the Bavarian cabinet does not want to be vaccinated and defends it at a press conference with Söder in front of all the media.

He's not very amused and let's see what happens next. And again vaccination topic: The STIKO still does not want to lean out the window and rejects a general vaccination recommendation or concern for children from 12 years. Much better and firsthand. Dr. Terhardt, a STIKO member, says about the statements made by politicians, including Spahn, that he has to keep finding out that politics makes statements to the public and mostly ignores scientific data. UUuups, a wise sentence, should at least some politicians take to heart. But I still have strange news: It was just spread in Germany that 2 vaccinations protect, according to a new study, maybe, so maybe for a longer period of time, i.e. several years.

The duration of the effect should now depend on age and decrease with age. If that's true, I wonder why Turkey is already allowing registrations for a third vaccination. In Turkey, more and more vaccinations are being made with Biontech and Sinovac from China. No information as to whether this is related.

Unfortunately, I now have to pronounce a small or medium-sized damper for those who have already been vaccinated. As well as the mRNA vaccines can help against corona, unfortunately a very decisive side effect has now been identified that will accompany you as a vaccinated person for your entire life if this occurs to you. Lt. According to a new study, these vaccines can not only influence vaccinations that you have received against measles, mumps and the like, for example, and which should actually last your entire life, but much worse (quote): The vaccine is supposed to be a complex functional reprogramming of the innate immune response induce (end of quote). In plain language, this means that you become more susceptible to diseases that your immune system can suddenly no longer cope with so easily. I am not a doctor or any other medical professional, so please refrain from inquiries about further explanations. However, so that you can inform yourself, I can tell you the name of the study from which I got the quote: "The BNT162b2 mRNA vaccine against SARS-CoV-2 reprograms both the adaptive and the innate immune response" published on medRxiv .org.

But because we are almost never doing, we have already started to outsource some medical devices. This time to Tunisia. These are ventilators. Because Spahn always thinks about his generous orders, which he later declares as necessary and farsighted, and orders for other countries at the same time. He doesn't have to pay, but the citizens through tax money, so you can give away generously afterwards. The argument "neediness", which is then often used as a solidarity thought, naturally applies to 99% of all donations, because there are enough countries worldwide that are in need in some way. He should rather stop the scams that have arisen during the entire Corona times due to its holey and uncontrolled regulations. But he is overwhelmed there.

We remember that retail companies and their representatives in particular complained the loudest when it came to getting something from the federal government's money cake. It turned out to be a success, but some, and quite a few, have blended into the cake. Around 7,600 cases of subsidy fraud, mainly corona aid, resulted in damage of around 150 million euros. A stick of paper when you consider the total aids. Just peanuts. Overall white-collar crime rose rapidly to almost 50,000 cases in 2020, and Allianz can only report an increase in insurance fraud. They go in many directions. The fact is, however, that the inhibition threshold has decreased significantly in view of the expected holey examination of the applications. If you are not helped, then you help yourself, that is the motto.

You know that: If glass splinters or any bacteria are suspected in a food, a recall takes place and the publication of the food and batch number (s) is made. The motto is money back. Absolutely normal. Because it is about the health of the citizens. Obviously not so with the federal government. The Federal Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, subordinate to the Ministry of Labor, should warn of currently 5 different FFP2 masks that have come onto the market from 5 different manufacturers. But no indication to the population as to which masks, batches, production dates, etc. are involved. Two press spokespersons from the relevant ministries at the federal press conference are brief: Nobody knows anything about it. Information will be provided later if possible. What do you mean here is possible? Is it true or is it not true? Then it must be possible, for everyone. Wait, I forgot, everyone will get Corona at some point if you haven't been vaccinated. Sorry, that fits very well then; defective masks, that's where you can start.
