Vaccination fever has started. Not a day goes by when politicians, doctors, scientists and would-be experts do not tell us how important, unimportant, dangerous it is to get vaccinated against Corona. And others tell us, no problem, the " normal " population will not be in turn until the end of 2021 anyway. Nanu, Spahn and Co. are already talking about being able to start vaccination in mid-December. Vaccination centres, hundreds of them, are being knocked out of the ground, thousands of helpers are being sought, but for what? As we know, the first company to go through the press with headlines, Biontech and the US offshoot Pfizer, announced the breakthrough early on and Spahn had slammed the company with supposedly 100 million doses for Germany. Just isn't right about Biontech, because on the one hand, Spahn or Biontech does not distribute the cans, but only the EU is entitled, and everyone should get the train. And now this: Pfizer is talking about being able to deliver half as many doses of vaccine in 2020, and by 2021 everything should be normal; for now. Instead of 100 million doses, only 50 million doses. There are reportedly problems in expanding supply chains. In addition, results of clinical trials are still ongoing or are delayed. For this purpose, previous starting materials did not meet the standards. And Biontech is now talking about wanting das a fair global distribution of the vaccine, and it already has an organization in mind that can do it. Oh, they have taken the tens of millions of euros of German funding, let's see how much vaccine is ultimately left for Germany. But one is already the winner of the whole vaccination story, no matter how it starts or goes out: the Biontech founders. Schupp, some good early news on the Corona vaccine, and you're already one of the richest people in the world, with a 250% jump. The assets are currently estimated at around 5 billion euros.

What technology is the vaccine actually built on: the whole thing is called mRNA technology, it is used to instill genetic material in human cells. And now it's getting interesting: as NTV Online reports on December 3, there are fears of altering the human genetic material, or DNA for short. As simple as plants. Prof. Dr. Klaus Cichutek, President of the Paul Ehrlich Institute, Federal Institute for Vaccines and Biomedical Medicinal Products, comments as follows (excerpt + quote): "Warnings of genetic damage are false and cause unfounded fears" and "... the new mRNA vaccines could alter the genetic material of humans, would not correspond to the scientific knowledge " (quote end). We remember that mRNA vaccines can NOT change the genetic material of humans.

And Prof. Dr. Carlos A. Guzman, head of the Helmholtz Centre for Infection Research GmbH, expresses himself in "Zeit Online" as follows (quote): "The mRNA has a different chemical structure and hardly any possibility to get to the DNA, which lies isolated in the nucleus", and further " In order to be able to connect at all, the mRNA would also have to be converted into DNA. This is also not possible in a human cell ".

Now a quote from the treatise of mRNA technology from Wikipedia.org (quote): In the nucleus of eukaryotic cells, a DNA section is rewritten into a specific RNA strand (transcription) and processed into mature mRNA. (End of quote). So for a layman like me, this sounds like this: a DNA strand is being changed, so the vaccine intervenes in the DNA, what is right? If anyone can and wants to report something about this to me, please use my email. I would then publish this in the next report, please send the approval to it immediately, otherwise there is no point. Thank you in advance. In any case, it should be noted that a vaccine on this basis HAS NEVER been approved. Why only ?

Meanwhile, in Austria, Chancellor Kurz sees an important reason for the increase in infections, especially in Austria, because of the returnees of people with a migrant background who would have made trips abroad in the summer. For this he has already received schelte in his own country, truths of this kind are inconvenient to many. This is not about apportioning blame, but about facts. Just. And the speed of work of politicians and the federal government, which has always been so highly praised during the pandemic, seems to have its quirks here and there: what was already shown with the Corona app, then the so-called bridging funds continued to show up in the transition of the health authorities in the digital transmission of infected persons, in the meantime in the recording and inspection of returnees or previously not working during roadside checks, the so-called bridging funds are now continuing to the same extent: the companies that were supposed to receive bridging aid in November will probably have to wait until January 2021; the software for processing them is probably not yet ready. I'm done and I can't believe it. And I can only congratulate the Bremen Higher Administrative Court for its decision to ban yesterday's demonstration of lateral thinkers. The reason: It is not to be assumed that the demonstrators wear masks and keep distance. Well, please, finally a sensible decision. I hope that this will have a signal effect, because, as we know, the figures do not go down despite measures, quite the contrary: why do you think?

I have just received an urgent message: Prime Minister Söder is said to have declared a disaster in Bayer at 2.10 p.m. The Bavarian state government has decided on new measures, which are to apply from Wednesday, and on Tuesday the state parliament is to decide this. Mr Söder does not want any debates on this, either decide or not. Health systems are overstretched. For this reason, the rules will be subject to stricter controls, especially in shops, with curfews in place from 9 p.m. on hotspots starting at 200 /100,000 inhabitants. The death toll is too high, the number of infected people is not falling, now is the last chance to make a difference before Christmas. Meanwhile, more and more normal surgeries are being postponed in the hospitals, and it is slowly becoming tight in the hospitals. Classroom instruction in schools will be restricted and alcohol consumption will no longer be allowed in public places. Apart from that, the state government is calling for sensible masks to be worn from now on, not any scarves or scarves where you can simply breathe.
